

ROOSEVELT FUNERAL HELD TODAY

SERVICES WERE HELD: ONE AT HOME, ONE AT CHURCH AND ONE AT GRAVE.

TWO SONS ARE ABSENT

Widow Bids Goodbye to Life Companion at Home; Children See Body Committed to Earth.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Except for two sons, absent as soldiers in their country's service overseas, the family of Theodore Roosevelt, twenty-sixth president of the United States, assembled in the living room at Sagamore Hill shortly before noon today for the first of a trilogy of simple services—at home, church and graveside—with which the family will bid farewell to the body of this Long Island village.

Mrs. Roosevelt, sharing her husband's antipathy to funeral ceremony, decided not to attend the church services nor to join the procession to the cemetery. It was announced that she would bid goodbye to the body of her companion in life here where they lived for many years while her children, who grew to manhood and womanhood in the atmosphere of the old homestead, would see the body committed to earth in the family plot atop the highest hill in Young's Memorial cemetery overlooking Long Island Sound.

Home Service Short.
The home service, one of prayer alone, was to last hardly more than five minutes, according to the Rev. George E. Tallmadge, rector of Christ Episcopal church, while the ritual before the altar was expected to be concluded within 15 or 20 minutes after the body was brought into the house. The element of simplicity was to be followed, the clergyman said, even to omission of the customary organ voluntary while the Episcopal funeral service was being read.

Prayers at church.

After the former president's body was carried by household servants to the house, a procession of fifteen automobiles would be formed to convey the attendants at the prayer service to the church. The funeral cortege, headed by a magnificent negro chauffeur, Charlie Lee, at the wheel was to carry Mrs. Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Richard Derby, Jr., daughters of the president, and his sister, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Captain Archibald Roosevelt and Theodore Douglas Robinson, a nephew, were to precede the church a few rods ahead of the procession which the rector, who is a nephew of the famous preacher, the Rev. T. Devitt Tallmadge.

The church service of ten parts, which included the sentences, the Psalms (39 and 90), the colonial lesson, Corinthians 1:15, the colonel's favorite hymn, "How Firm a Foundation," recited by the rector, the Lord's prayer and the prayers for grace, thankfulness, transfiguration and support.

After the church services attended less than 100 relatives, personal friends and literary associates of the former president and representatives of the American and allied governments the cortege was to move to the cemetery where it was planned to carry the casket to the Roosevelt plot a short distance away. After the brief committal service of the Episcopal church already lined with concrete, the grave already lined with concrete.

RILEY YOUNG, DARIEN, IS NAMED SPEAKER OF LOWER HOUSE

FARMER MEMBERSHIP FAILS TO SHOW STRENGTH IN CAUCUS

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN

Senator Stevens, Rhinelander, Elected President Protempore of Upper House.

Madison, Jan. 8.—The Wisconsin legislature convened at noon today and moved slowly through the formalities of organization. The farmer membership failed to capture the speakership at the republican caucus Tuesday evening.

At the meeting of the legislature today, the following officers were elected:

In the assembly: speaker, Riley S. Young, Watworth county; chief clerk, C. E. Shaffer, Madison; sergeant at arms, E. G. Crainey, Madison. In the senate: president protempore, Senator W. T. Stevens, Rhinelander; chief clerk, O. G. Munson, Vilas; sergeant at arms, Col. John Turner, Mauston.

Republican members on the committees are: Senator A. H. Wilkinson, Bayfield and Senator I. P. Witter, Grand Rapids. Gov. Philipp intends to call the legislature into session Wednesday, but more probably Thursday morning.

At the republican caucus Tuesday evening, Young was named for speaker on the first ballot. He received 45, Connor, Brule, 15; Axel Johnson, Turtle Lake, 10 and C. B. Ballard, Appleton, 4.

Shortly after the legislature organized, Senator Burke, Green Bay, offered a resolution in the upper house commending Colonel Roosevelt's service.

NEW FACES PLENTIFUL IN 1919 LEGISLATURE

Over 60 Per Cent of Lower House Membership is New; Ratio Smaller in Senate.

Madison, Jan. 8.—The opening of the session of the legislature here today was marked by the absence of many familiar names. Over 60 per cent of the membership is new; the ratio of new members in the senate is much smaller.

Nine new faces were found in the senate chamber. The seat of Senator W. F. Perry, who had served eight years in the upper house is filled by Senator Herbert L. Peterson, a banker of Sturgeon Bay. Senator George L. Back, having been elected to the place of Senator J. Everett, who was defeated in the primaries for the nomination of lieutenant governor. Ray J. Nye, Superior, for many years a member of the senate, has been elected to the place of Senator Fred Baxter. Henry Bilgen, a farmer of Iron Ridge, has been given the seat held by Senator Hyron Burwig. J. H. Kiehl, a farmer-socialist of Eau Claire, has been elected to the place of Senator William H. H. Potts. Claire B. Bird, a well known Wausau attorney is here in the seat of W. H. Albers.

Changes in Assembly.
The changes are even more marked in the lower house. Many of the prominent leaders are gone. Assemblyman Weston Woodward, Chippewa Falls, has been displaced by Earl Bartingale, who served in the 1913 session. Frank W. Downs, Washburn, was chosen in place of Walter Duffy. Harry Hewitt, a farmer of Wisconsin, has taken the place of Assemblyman W. L. Smith, who was one of the administration floor leaders at the last session. Assemblyman William T. E. Evans, of the last session, who was defeated in the last session, which was replaced by Gov. Philipp, was not a candidate and his place has been taken by Marcus E. Johnson, Madison.

Assemblyman Homer A. Stone, who was notably by his colleagues as the "father" of the University of Wisconsin, has been displaced by A. L. Best, a farmer of Downing. Benjamin Webster of Plattville was not returned. His seat is filled by J. Grindell, a granite dealer of the same city.

Spoor is Missed.
There were many comments on the absence of Newcomb Spooner, of Lincoln, a member of the legislature since 1910. He was not a candidate for re-election and William Olson, a farmer of Brownstown, was elected to succeed him. Other prominent names missing on the assembly floor call were: Assemblyman Henry Grell, Johnson Creek; William Eversen, Lake Mills; E. J. Vincent, Kenosha; J. M. Engstrom, Wiscasset; Henry Froehoff, Le Cresser; Edward Nordman, Polk; Herman Hedrich, Marathon county; Dr. George D. Whiteside, Portage; Assemblyman Charles D. Rosa, Beloit; George Carpenter, Eau Claire; John J. Collins, Trempealeau county; Martin Battis, Oshkosh; and Fred Hess of Waupaca. Many of these absentees were not candidates for re-election.

Field Marshal Hindenburg is reported to have arrived in Berlin.

Movie Men on Job.
Street fighting has been particularly singular. It is said, owing to the fact that the Spartacus element has plenty of weapons taken from munitions factories at Spandau. While the machine guns were firing and bombs were exploding, movie picture operators were busily recording the scenes enacted in the streets.

It was announced recently that the American army had sent moving picture cameras to Berlin to record the fighting. The dislocation of the telegraph service has prevented anything more than meagre and scattered reports of what has been happening in the fighting through, but all the dispatches agree that severe street fighting occurred Tuesday.

First Clash on Sunday.
The first encounters between the government and the Spartacus forces occurred Sunday in front of the Kaiserhof hotel, when one person was killed and eight others wounded. According to an eye witness, the Spartacus forces were the aggressors. The other troops turned against the government and others refused to obey the government's orders to recapture the quarter of the Wolff Bureau, the semi-official newspaper of the Spartacus. Gen. Groener, who was recently dismissed by the government for alleged complicity in a royalist plot, is said to have offered to occupy the capital with 40 reliable divisions.

Rods Press Fight.
Berlin, Jan. 7.—The hosts of Dr. Karl Liebknecht, leader of the ultra-radical Spartacus group engaged in an attempt to overthrow the government were beginning to move at this hour toward the Silesia. On Monday evening they occupied the building of the general railway executives and also are holding the main telegraph office.

The Spartacus and the independent socialists appear resolutely determined to continue the attempt to overthrow the government.

A Spartacus delegation today endeavored to confer with the government, but was notified that the government would not discuss any matter until all public and private buildings now occupied by the counter revolutionists had been vacated.

The Spartacus delegation consisted of Wilhelm Dittmann, a former member of the cabinet; Carl Kautsky; Herr Breitscheid, former Prussian minister of the interior; and Gustav Gerson, a former member of the Reichstag.

Government troops have been posted on top of the Brandenburg gate and adjoining buildings with machine guns. The troops in the government buildings have been equipped with flame throwers.

The committee reported that something in the line of a building should be erected in honor of our soldiers and sailors. It was recommended that the city be bonded to cover the purchase of a suitable site and for the erection of the building, and that the building should be erected at such time as the council should see fit and building conditions would permit.

Defense of Rhythm in Poetry.

When a poet discards rhythm he is discarding perhaps the most powerful single artifice of poetry which is at his disposal—the particular artifice, moreover, which, more than any other, enables the poet to obtain a psychic control over his reader, to exert a sort of hypnosis over him. Rhythm is persuasive. It is the very stuff of life. It is not surprising, therefore, that things cannot be said in rhythm which otherwise cannot be said at all; paraphrase is fine passage of poetry into prose and in the dishevelment the ghost will have escaped. A good many champions of free verse would perhaps dispute this. They would fall back on the theory that, at any rate, certain moods more colloquial and less intense than those of the highest type of poetry, and less colloquial and more intense than those of the highest type of prose, could find their aptest expression in this form, which lies halfway between—Conrad Atkin in the Dial.

Helping One Another.

We do far more than we think to steady one another's principles, to hold one another up. A thought of the boy who must not be allowed to inherit a dishonored name has held many a man in the hour of temptation. The remembrance of wife and child has barred the way to many a wrong transaction.

The quiet courage of every day, that does its best hour by hour and accepts as part of the day's work the losses and penalties that steadfastly doing right must often bring—this is the highest courage of all.

Many people add unnecessarily to their own anxiety by assuming cares that do not belong to them—which form no real part of their duty or their work. Some of these burdens are pure creations of one's own excited or morbid imagination, while others appertain to the life or duty of others and not to us.—Exchange.

Carrot and Radish Seed.

California is the largest producer of carrot seed. Sacramento and Yolo counties rank first, with San Joaquin, Contra Costa, Santa Clara and San Benito counties ranking as minor producers. In the production of radish seed the situation is reversed, the coast counties of California producing the bulk of the crop, and the river district being unimportant as a producer. It is also grown in the Pacific Northwest. Beet seed is grown in both the river and coast districts of California, but is probably grown more extensively around Sacramento than in any other portion of the state. Lettuce seed is grown almost exclusively near the coast sections of California.

SOCIALIST WINS SEAT IN ASSEMBLY BY CHANCE

Manitowoc.—George Rathack, Socialist, won the election contest for assemblyman from the first district of Manitowoc county in a lottery conducted by the circuit court following a decision by Judge Kerwin holding that the recount of ballots was legal and ordering the withdrawal of two extra ballots returned by the fourth ward precinct in this city. The withdrawal of the ballots left the vote a tie and the court ordered a lottery. Lorfeldt, Republican, who lost by chance may still make a fight before the legislature for the office. It is said that Rathack failed to file with the secretary of state a notice of contest within thirty days as required by that statute. Rathack, in the Socialist party, returned from Manitowoc county to the state legislature.

CITY STREETS.
The following excerpts from the Literary Digest will be of interest to the members of the present city council who recently purchased the city street flusher. Of course every expenditure of a civic organization is subject to criticism and the street flusher has been more or less a topic of discussion, yet the following excerpt from such authority as the Literary Digest should substantiate the claims of the city fathers that they took time by the forelock and did not even wait for the public demand for such a contraption and bought it when they could get it, and now have it ready for service when spring comes.

Wash the streets is the caption over the article and it is as follows.
However, before reading it stop and congratulate Janesville in being one of the cities that has looked into the future and stepped in line for civic improvements without being urged.
Aflit they do the same on the garbage collection problem and then we could count something done. However, here is to the street flusher as the editorial says:

"To dry-clean a dirty street with scrubbers and brooms is no more satisfying than to rub the body with a dry cloth as a substitute for a bath.
Washing is the true method of ridding a surface of undesirable matter, whether that surface is the skin of a one's face or the pavement of a thoroughfare. An editorial writer in 'Engineering and Contracting' (Chicago November 28) notifies the managers of water-works plants that though they do not ordinarily have charge of street cleaning, it lies within their power to assist, both directly and indirectly, in securing cleaner streets.
He goes on:

"And by 'cleaner streets' we do not mean streets free only of visible dirt, but streets free of the invisible microbes that ride upon the dust grains. Water, the great cleanser, should be applied daily in large quantities to all business streets, and at frequent intervals to all paved residence streets. The germ-laden dust should be flushed into the sewers before it can spread pneumonia, tuberculosis, grippe, or influenza, and other diseases of the nose, throat, and lungs.

"It devolves upon every consen-tious man who knows the efficacy of water as a sanitary agent to do his best to arouse the public and its representatives to the desirability of flushing all paved streets periodically.
The superintendent of every waterworks is particularly one who should never rest until his city's streets are as clean as a hospital floor. While it is his duty to prevent the waste or waste by mismanagement and otherwise, it is also his duty to encourage the consumption of more water for sanitary purposes and for garden irrigation.
A low per capita consumption of water should not be his ultimate goal, but rather as high a per capita consumption as may be attained after eliminating all waste."

Dr. T. D. Lewiston, of San Francisco, wrote recently to The Chronicle of his city the following letter, which is reproduced by the writer of the article cited above. Dr. Lewiston, calling attention to what he terms "the unwashed and filthy streets" of San Francisco, says what no doubt equally true of many other cities when he remarks:

"As a medical man who has studied epidemics and their spread, I am certain that there would be perhaps twenty-five per cent fewer cases (of influenza) here if the streets were kept clean and free from dust and dirt, and if the law against spitting were even half-way enforced, which it is not. The people of this city have themselves to thank or blame for their present sufferings—or, rather, the officials whom they put in power. I have no interest in local politics, but for the sake of the life and health of the community, can not something worth while be done to clean up the streets? They are in a dangerous condition of filth, a condition that would seriously menace the health of the community, even if there were no epidemic."

"The writer's final comment is:
"Dr. Lewiston states the case for clean streets mildly enough. It would be nearer the mark to say that three-fourths of all the respiratory disease germs reach the nose, throat, and lungs from the street surface where they were deposited by diseased people."

BACK TO THE FARMS.
One finds a vast difference of opinion on the part of writers who advocate the plan of "Back to the Farm."
The advocates of the suggestion point to what Canada is doing for its returned soldiers in the way of free land and the loan, or gift, of funds to develop it.
But these advocates forget, say others who are interested in the problem, that Canada is really an agricultural territory and the majority of the young men who went overseas went from rural communities, while those from the United States went from shops and offices.

One writer insists that these city-bred men will want to return to their old positions when through soldiering and will not care for the free farm suggestion. On the contrary we find noted writers stating that these young men who have lived in the open for so many months will wish to continue the life and the farm will appeal to them as a means of working off their surplus energies.

Back again come the critics who state that these men have been used to long hours, both night and day, for so many months they would not wish for the still longer ones working on farms, even though lured by the hope of ultimate wealth and independence as the result of their personal labors.

However the problem remains what to do with the returned soldiers and with the demand for more food from Europe, demands for more farm-labor to produce crops, increased demands for labor in various lines of activity, and the "back to the farm" suggestion, should gain consideration.
The demand right here in Rock county for farm labor is most insistent and will increase as the season advances, so instead of being a national problem only, it is really a question to be settled here at home first.

THE WORLD PAUSED.

At twelve-forty-five today the world paid tribute to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt, whose simple funeral, his own desire, was held at that hour at Oyster Bay, and one of the greatest of Americans was laid in his final resting place. It is proper at this time to pay the last homage to the man who has been taken from our midst, and quote the proclamation of President Wilson and the tribute paid to the departed whose genius and real worth as a man, as a citizen and as a statesman, he honored and respected. President Wilson cabled from France the following message to the people of the United States:

"A Proclamation to the People of the United States:
"It becomes my sad duty to announce officially the death of Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States from September 14, 1901, to March 4, 1909, which occurred at his home at Sagamore Hill, Oyster Bay, N. Y., at 4:15 o'clock in the morning of January 8, 1919.

"In his death the United States has lost one of its most distinguished and patriotic citizens, who had endeared himself to the people by his strenuous devotion to their interests and to the public interests of his country.
"As president of the police board of his native city, as member of the legislature and governor of the state, as civil service commissioner, as assistant secretary of the navy, as vice president, and as president of the United States, he displayed administrative power of a signal order and conducted the affairs of these various offices with a concentration of effort and a watchful care which permitted no divergence from the line of duty he had definitely set for himself.

"In the war with Spain he displayed singular initiative and energy and distinguished himself among the commanders of the army in the field. As president he awoke the nation to the dangers of private control which lurked in our financial and industrial systems. It was by thus arresting the attention and stimulating the purpose of the country that he opened the way for subsequent necessary and beneficent reforms.

"His private life was characterized by a simplicity and an affection worthy of all admiration and emulation by the people of America.
"In testimony of the respect in which his memory is held by the government and people of the United States I do hereby direct that the flags of the White House and several departmental buildings be displayed at half staff for a period of thirty days, and that suitable military and naval honors under orders of the secretary of war and of the navy be rendered on the day of the funeral.
"Done this 7th day of January, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and forty-third.

"WOODROW WILSON."
By the President.
Frank L. Polk, acting secretary of state.

TOO ABSURD.

When Premier Ebert received the famous Prussian Guard on their return to Berlin, he greeted them with the expression, "You are still unbeaten." Great heavens what does he call unbeaten? If you want to know the truth ask the marines. They can tell you a tale that sounds just like that story of Paul Revere's Ride, when it quotes:

"And the British regulars fired and fled
While the farmers gave them ball for ball
From behind each fence and farmyard fence and wall."

"Did they flee? No they simply retreated in good order. But the marines tell a different story. So when Ebert says this again be sure and cry out: "Page the Marines Boy."

So the speaker of the state assembly will remain in the hands of a first congressional district man after all? In selecting Riley Young of Darwin as their choice for speaker, the republican members of the legislature have chosen a man who will make a most excellent leader and will expedite the work of the session, his motto being fair play for all and malice toward none. Congratulations Mr. Young.

The real value of President Wilson's visit to Europe just at this time is becoming more apparent as the days go by and the recollections tender him as president of the greatest republic of the world, are even more pronounced as his stay continues.
That the leading position of the United States in the coming peace sessions is now firmly established, is all due to the presence of President Wilson on the scene of the activities.

It now appears that Germany supplied Villa with the funds to purchase the rifles with which he shot down unsuspecting American ranchers on this side of the Rio Grande, and yet the United States permits Mexico to continue in its evil ways without even slapping it on the wrist and saying in a harsh tone: "Naughty! Naughty!
Naughty!"

Protest against keeping American troops in Russia continue to be raised more insistently than ever. Persons by the time several hundred more red-blooded Americans will have died or been killed in skirmishes with the Bolsheviks they may be brought home or the answer made why they are now there.

By this time tomorrow we may know whether Victor L. Berger, the Milwaukee socialist and congressman-elect, is really guilty of violation of the espionage act or not. If guilty, it is safe to say Judge Landis will hand out one of his usual stiff sentences.
If not guilty Mr. Berger will be a bigger man than ever.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

OUR COUNTRY.

God grant that we shall never see
Our country slave to lust and greed;
God grant that here all men shall be United by a common creed.
Here Freedom's Flag has held the sky Unstained, untarnished, from its birth;
Long may it wave to typify
The happiest people on the earth.
Beneath its folds have mothers smiled
To see their little ones at play;
No tyrant hand, by shame defiled,
To them has barred life's rosy way.
No cruel wall of caste or class
Has bid men pause or turn aside, Here looms no gate they may not pass.
Here every door is opened wide.

Here fame and fortune wait to call
Who are athirst may drink their fill.
Here fame and fortune wait to call
The toiler who has proved his skill.
Here wisdom sheds its light
And every man may read and write
And share the knowledge of a king.
God grant that we shall never see
Our country slave to lust and greed;
God grant that men shall always be United for our nation's need.
Here selfishness has never reigned, Here freedom all who come may know.
By tyranny our Flag's unstained
God grant that we may keep it so.

WHO'S WHO in the Daily News

DAVID R. FRANCIS.
David R. Francis, American ambassador to Russia, has left London for Paris, where it is understood he is to communicate certain sensational information to President Wilson.
He is said to fear that the Bolshevists of Russia will be able to form an alliance with the Spartacist element in Germany and spread their doctrines even among the eastern nations.
The mission off
Am has a problem. Old Doc Evans says:
"Have the child wear a knitted cap in the house and out, night and day, all winter and all spring. If the ears have not been trained into the new consider operation. If the baby is a girl do not neglect this; if a boy, why take the trouble?"

well known in American politics because that time, having been secretary of the interior under President Cleveland, and president of the Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis.

FRESS COMMENT

A Suggestion
The ex-crown prince of Germany is evidently acquiring a liberal education as one of the incidental advantages of his exile. At any event he has learned one thing: "If you can't run away, be that state in the way of real liberty for the Poles."—Fond du Lac Reporter.

Sparks
Shall the German admirers of Spartacus be called Spartacides or Spartaci? is a moot question. Why not Spartacusses?—El Paso Herald.

Galant Poles
Instead of an oppressed Poland, the world now sees a people, who, gaining their freedom, are preparing to exercise it in sweeping aside the romance else it in sweeping aside the romance that state in the way of real liberty
for the Poles.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

Good Advice
The members of the Wisconsin Retail Liquor Dealers Association in convention at Milwaukee yesterday were told by Judge John C. Karel to observe the law. The injunction ought not be necessitated for any group of business men, but it is safe advice to give and some times it ought to be given to men who are engaged in undertakings besides that of vending liquor.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

Oh Shame!
Two new moons occur during the present month, according to the calendar. And some persons will be ready to suggest it would be more appropriate for the moon to "get full" twice, considering the long dry spell in prospect.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

The winter weather is usually understood to present indications as to crop prospects to follow, and in that view all of the weather experts, official and unofficial, agree that as thus far indicated the crops this year should be large, especially as to wheat.

An Ace Now
Of a good fellow it may no longer be said, "He's a prince!" royalty having lost much of its charm for the world. "He's an ace!" gives a more popular impression of high-and-mightiness.—Chicago News.

UNPOPULAR SONGS.

A tramp drew near a cottage door,
And rapped upon the sill.
The kind old lady looked him o'er And beamed with her good will.
He said, "Kind friend, in me, you lamp
A cold and hungry bo.
I'm sure you'd keep a poor old tramp
From dying in the snow."

The lady listened, open-eyed,
Her smile lit up the gloom.
She quickly turned and went inside,
Then came back with the broom.

"You shall not starve upon the snow,
It is too cold to lie on.
But you shall take this broom, you know.
And sweep a place to die on."

A DISGUSTED PATRIOT.

All the way from Everett, Wash., to this column comes the following literary and patriotic gem, shipped by a child from the Island County (Wash.) "Times":
Had the war went on for a while longer Sheriff Fred Armstrong would have probably received an officer's commission in due time. Fred put in an application some time ago to be sent to a training school and last week received word to come to the military headquarters at the State university at Seattle. There he was given an examination which he passed and was told that it was likely he would be somebody went and stopped the war.

PEACE.

When all the wise men of the world,
From Helsingfors to Greece,
Hang up their hats at old Versailles
To figure out the peace, I hope they will remember me—the peace that I demand—
And help wipe out an evil that exists across this continent for a certain dumb of sin.
Who lives across the street from me and scraps the violin.

COMMERCE CHAMBER RECOMMENDS SITE FOR COUNTY SANITARIUM

INSTITUTION NEEDED

Adopt Resolution Urging The Necessity of Erecting Such An Institution In Rock County.

A resolution urging the building of the county tuberculosis sanitarium and recommending that the institution be located near the present county buildings on the bank of Rock river, north of this city, has been adopted by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce and a copy of the resolution will be given to George Woodruff, chairman of the tuberculosis sanitarium committee of the county board.

A survey of probable sites was made by the Chamber of Commerce and at a meeting of the Board of Directors held last evening it was decided to recommend the site in the vicinity of the county hospital.

"After a study of the subject of a County Tuberculosis Sanitarium," and having the opinion of many physicians, the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce hereby endorse the movement to build such an institution to provide for the tuberculosis affected residents of the county. The directors of the Janesville Chamber of Commerce, being convinced of the necessity of such an institution, urge that every effort be expended to complete the project.

"This board further urges that the site for the new sanitarium be near the county buildings on the bank of the Rock river north of the city of Janesville. Such a site is available at this point and embodies in this board's opinion all the essentials required for such an institution.

Board of directors, Janesville Chamber of Commerce, (By) J. P. Cullen, President."

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My daughter has been keeping steady company with a young man for eight months. They are seeing too much of each other, but if I object she says she will marry him at once. They are each other at work. They are employed in the same place.

Every morning he calls for her and they go to work together, and every evening they come home together. They spend their Saturday afternoons, all day Sunday and every evening together. I know this is too often, but what can I do? She is so good and the only reason they don't marry is because he is saving money so that they can start out on a larger scale. What would you advise?

It would be better for her to marry on a small scale than to spend so much time together. Unless your daughter and the man see less of each other their health will not stand the monotony of each other's company. They cannot do justice to work this way.

Would her entertaining him more than three times a week ever be a result of your protest? Marriage. Marriage will be far better than the condition which now exists.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been keeping company with two young men. I am very much in love with one of them. I have let him come to see me because he asked so many times and wanted to come so much that I did not care to disappoint him. Now I am engaged and expect to keep my engagement a secret until next spring. How can I keep this boy from asking me to go places with me? I do not want to hurt his feelings. BETTY.

You expect the impossible. It will be necessary to refuse all of the boy's requests for company, and to do this will necessarily hurt his feelings. He will recover, however, and as soon as he learns of your answer will look around for another girl.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am eighteen years old. I was going with a boy at school and I thought he loved me. He told me he did and made me care for him. I loved him so much that I kissed him good-night. After I had kissed him a few times he changed and he said he was not really in love with me. Then he stopped coming to see me entirely. About that time every one in the crowd I go with started to act queer. I do not know what it means. I am sure I am losing him and was so unkind that I know they are not friends.

There is one girl who stood by me. She told me that the boy had been talking and told every one how easy I was and that he could make me do anything.

Really, I would be glad if I could die. I think about this all the time and I cry at night. I cannot tell my mother because she has told me that it is wrong to kiss boys and she would not understand.

The boy is through and through a cad. He has not hurt me very much, but he has made me feel very badly. Most girls permit some boy to kiss them before they are engaged, but they are not unfortunate enough to be kissed by a cad. You may be sure that most of the girls who are unkind to you have either been kissed or have never had a chance.

In a few weeks this whole matter will be forgotten. You must realize that mistakes are blessings if they are remembered and not made again. People are going to read you just as much as a little girl, if you keep your character clean and true.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have very pretty hands with one exception. My fingernails are a good shape, but they are covered with white spots. I cannot seem to get rid of them. I thought I manicure almost every day. What is the cause of the spots and what can I do for them?

The spots are bruises. Doubtless you have thin, sensitive nails and when you knock them against something or push the cuticle back, a white spot comes. Be very careful when you manicure, and be gentle with a wooden stick only. Steel is hard on the nails.

ANXIOUS.

The result was that both Janet and Jim sensed in each other's forces pulling in opposite directions on Wait.

The conversation became one-sided. The Steadmans had only "we met, wooed, loved and married" to tell us of the history of the year since Jim's departure for the "knock-about" around the world. But Jim, on his side, had many a fascinating story to tell of adventures in China, Japan, India, the South Seas.

The stories, like Jim's song, had always the same refrain. "There was a little woman I met there. Now and then he would go into a rhapsody of the beauties of some lotus land in the tropics and break in with 'Gosh! how I wished you were there. Wait!—you would have gone dippy over!'"

Whereas Janet would glance at Wait and read, whether rightly or not, in his faraway look the echo of Jim's wish. Wait would recount some experience that breathed the air of romantic bachelorhood, and Janet knew what wishful journeys his mind was taking.

Toward the end of the evening Holister had talked himself out for the moment. An awkward little pause fell on the group. Then Jim said: "I promised the gang I would show up at Phil Dean's studio tonight. They're giving me a sort of how-d'you-do, you know. Won't you come along?"

Jim nodded at both Janet and Wait. But Janet smiled, a thoughtful look in her eyes.

"No, thank you; but I want Wait to go on a little trip to bachelorhood. You're a good skipper for that. I'll wait in port."

He was the embodiment of incorruptible and alluring bachelorhood. Margaret, a wanderer, a genius for making of life a jolly stela song, his presence in a married household was to the husband what a song is to a retired cavalry horse. As to Jim, his favorite song, which he chanted

RUTH CAMERON

"But we shall fail," she said; everybody fails. To some extent we are bound to fail. Because indeed nothing is clear. Nothing is a clear issue.

You see I am already predicting a time of failure for your New Year's resolutions.

Suppose you do not think that an unkind thing to do, for I mean it far from unkindly.

They boast of the Wrong Things. New Year's resolutions are beautiful things to me. I love them. Sometimes I hear people boasting that they no longer make them, and I am sorry for these people for it means to me that they are of that misguided class that boast of the wrong things. Is it something to boast that one is losing one's idealism and one's aspirations or that one has lost faith in one's power to do better? I do not think so.

A Time of Failure, Not Absolute Failure.

But it is only because New Year's resolutions are so beautiful that I am willing to cloud the optimism of this day by predicting a time of failure. You notice I do not say failure, but a time of failure, and that is the thought I want to drive home.

Some people think that the moment a New Year's resolution is broken, it is therefore good for nothing but to be cast on the ash heap, and that they are thereby absolved from the demands made upon them.

What is the sense of that?

Would You Stop Trying to Find Your Way Because You Lost It Once?

A New Year's resolution represents an aspiration toward the good and beautiful, a path that you have marked out for yourself to follow because you believe it leads to success of one kind or another. Because you lose that path for a moment, are you to say, "Oh well, perhaps it was a foolish thing to try after all," or "I suppose I haven't enough courage or intelligence to follow it" and to wander down some by-path and give up the search? Is that what you would do if you were trying to find your way toward some city? If you had made one wrong turning, would you give up the search altogether and abandon yourself to aimless wanderings?

Suppose you make an extra resolution this year in addition to those you have planned. It is a very simple one and one which anyone can keep. You have guessed it, I am sure. That when the sad, almost inevitable moment comes that one of your resolutions is broken, you will not abandon it but will mend it again and hopefully "carry on."

With the cessation of all hostilities social affairs will again resume their former popularity. At any rate such pleasant little hospitalities as the informal afternoon tea, the "at home," which is still favored in many circles, and the informal afternoon call will take up some of the time which was heretofore given to knitting and can-teen work.

And of course there will be a change in costume. The practical quality of the day will be replaced by frocks which are designed specially for morning, luncheon or afternoon wear, whatever the case may be.

Pictured is a very charming gown for the afternoon caller to wear. It is a Lady Duff Gordon model and very stylish in effect. The dress is satin combined with georgette of the same shade are the materials used.

The novel front panel, wide crushed girde, pipings and skirt foundation are of the satin while the blouse and tunic are of the georgette. Brown silk floss and gold threads are used in the elaborate-embroidered designs on the panel sleeves and tunic edges. The model is especially adapted to the woman of slender lines.

whether this is the gooseberry wine or that. Or if this is the poisonous fishberry wine. There's only one way to find out—I must know! And she poured the contents of one bottle into a glass.

When her period of mourning was over, the widowed Princess took down the two bottles from the buffet.

"This empty one must have been the fishberry," she sighed, as she threw the bottle out the window and labeled the other one.

Now the question is—(see title.)

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Billy Bunny, Uncle Lucky and Mr. Jack Hawk were all listening to the song of the little canary bird at Uncle Lucky's home. But when I tell you that somebody else was listening, too, you'll get very curious, and as soon as I tell you who, you'll get very anxious.

But I won't keep you waiting. It was Robber Night Hawk, and he was looking right in through the window, because the shade wasn't pulled way down, you see. And when that little canary bird stopped singing, Uncle Lucky turned around to get the checker board, and, of course, he saw Robber Night Hawk's face against the window pane.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" exclaimed the old gentleman rabbit, and he dropped the checker board on his right hind foot and all the checkers rolled under the chairs except one, and that checker was never found again, for it dropped down the hole in the corner of the room, where little Miss Mousie lived.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" cried Uncle Lucky again, and then he walked over to the window as brave as he could, and pulled the shade way down and tied the string to the leg of a chair. And after that every-body kept very quiet, and Billy Bunny held his breath until he grew blue in his ears, and then, all of a sudden, they heard a noise at the front door. So they all crept to the back door and sure enough that wicked Hawk was trying to pick the lock with his great strong beak, and I guess he would have turned the key if Uncle Lucky hadn't stuck his cane through the handle so it couldn't turn.

WHAT EVERYBODY OUGHT TO KNOW

The United States Treasury Department says in a pamphlet issued to the public, that There should be no peace with prostitution, no truce with the red light district, no armistice with venereal diseases. Unconditional surrender is the government's demand from this battle at home.

How do you stand on this program, Mr. Citizen? It is no easy task. It is not a job for sentimentalists or for night enthusiasts. It is a task for hard-headed business and professional men and capable women. It is a job for citizens who feel responsibility for their community and their nation in the matter of peace as well as war.

With war's final end many war buildings, war jobs and institutions will go to the scrap heap. Don't let your patriotism and your community spirit in this matter. Make your blows knockouts against vice.

If you wonder why the treasury department is conducting this campaign against venereal disease it may be explained that MONEX in America is as plain as the nose on your face. It is a venereal infection, while HEALTH is comparatively unimportant. Therefore the U. S. treasury department is for this battle through one of its subsidiary branches, the public health service. The dollar's the thing.

The Treasury Department, United States Public Health Service, 238 First Street Northwest, Washington, D. C., will send to any address free a copy of any of the following pamphlets bearing on sex hygiene and the prevention of venereal disease:

Set A. For young men.
Set B. For the general public.
Set C. For boys.
Set D. For parents of children.
Set E. For children and young women.
Set F. For educators.

Right now write for your set, as a patriotic duty.

These pamphlets will not teach you the whole truth, but they will enable you to acquire a reasonable understanding of vital problems. If you fail to avail yourself of the opportunity here presented, you are shortchanging yourself about a much misunderstood subject the fault is your own and you may indeed feel ashamed of your dense ignorance. It is now a sin to be ignorant. If any of you to send these pamphlets, after the statement I have made above, I shall commit some heinous crime.

MORRIS MILLER

I received a letter the other day from Tom Nokes, secretary of the National Baseball Federation, the national organization of amateur baseball associations. The N. B. F. holds its annual meeting January 18 at Cleveland, Ohio, and Nokes gives some interesting information on the problems and plans of the amateurs.

Tom says in part:

"It is planned to make this meeting a real convention of those interested in sandlot baseball, as the game of amateur and semi-professional baseball is very rosy, and proper steps should be inaugurated for its advancement under the most favorable auspices, and the ideas and opinions of all those best versed in sandlot baseball are needed now as never before."

"Aside from the election of officers, the federation delegates will have to concern themselves with entire new plans for the future, now that the war has come to an end and the boys are returning home, most of them with highly acquired skills in the game of sports. If the federation is to measure up to its opportunities for the establishment and promotion of sandlot baseball, a high plan throughout the United States, it must give serious consideration to plans for the conduct of its affairs in a manner never before attempted."

"It is hoped that the federation affiliated city associations include all the big sandlot baseball centers of the great middle west the coming year, such as Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Canton, Akron, Indianapolis, Toledo, Detroit, Louisville, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Chicago, Des Moines, St. Louis and other cities. It is noteworthy that nearly all of the industrial centers are represented in sandlot baseball circles. It is interesting to note that in four years this federation has grown from a half dozen city associations to a score or more of city organizations, and the lack of funds is all that prevents a more rapid growth and expansion. It is a matter of much pride with the federation that it has maintained at all times a neutral attitude toward the leading sporting goods manufacturers concerns of the country, thus assuring the conduct of the sandlot game for sport rather than for commercial gain."

The real problems confronting the federation are a standard eligibility code for players, standard team rules, so that the boy or young man who plays baseball in the west is trained under the same conditions and forced to meet the requirements of the game tests as the boy or young man from the east, south or north, especially if a comparison is to be made in ability in the various endeavors of baseball. With city associations well established and supported, the boys and young men of these cities may play ball under the best possible conditions. They are able to furnish recreation and pleasure at the minimum cost to thousands, including the fond parents, loving sisters and brothers and admiring friends of the sandlot player."

"The National Baseball Federation has been co-operating right along with the professional players in baseball, and its efforts must bring about the development of more players and the professional club owners appreciate this and are anxious to see the sandlot players developed under the best possible conditions."

Many communities are without organized sandlot baseball because none of those interested know how to proceed to properly establish a sandlot organization. The National Baseball Federation endeavors to seek these promising centers, out and in promoting proper organizations for the amateur and semi-professional ballplayers and teams."

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Nitro-Phosphate to Put On Firm, Healthy Flesh and To Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing strong neck and bust, and placing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are a few thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Plain Nitro-Phosphate is a notable fact will supply the deficiency as well as the organic phosphate known among the druggists as nitro-phosphate, which is expensive and sold by Smith Drug Co. in Janesville, and almost all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphate, the result is a welcome transformation in the appearance of the individual. Weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:—Although nitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Cocoon Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulified cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulified cocoon oil at almost any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.
